

Our U.S. House Representative Buddy Carter led off, and reminded us that 70% of Americans think our country is going in the wrong, and that this year's midterm elections can right the ship, if Republicans take control of Congress. At the end of the Trump term, inflation was 1.4%, and is now 8.2%. Biden immediately declared war on energy, opened the Southern Border to drug cartels causing massive illegal immigration, Fentanyl fatalities averaging 200 lives a day, and who knows how many getaways of international terrorists. Other failed policies gave rise to rampant crime, a failed education system, and a world diminished of respect for US leadership. Biden has never visited the Southern Border, and the new Immigration Czar Kamala Harris spent one day at the El Paso Airport, some 800 miles away from where the massive illegal crossings take place. Former revered law enforcement agencies like the FBI and Justice department have been turned into political weapons, declaring parents interested in their children's school curriculum potential "domestic terrorists."

Hence the GOP House leaders articulating four pillars of their new Commitment to America.

1. An Economy that is strong, promising among other things a return to energy independence.
2. A Nation that is Safe – restoring support for law enforcement, and being tough on criminals.
3. A Future built on freedom – promoting a parent's bill of rights, to restore confidence in school curricula.
4. A Government that is accountable – with strong oversight and deep investigations into government agencies and panels that have left Republicans and indeed Americans in the dark on what rights have been violated, and what policies have been promulgated without full authorization.

With a Senate return to the GOP, and a reelection of Governor Kemp, plus other state victories, all that is left for a return to prosperity is a Republican White House in 2024.

Question and Answer Session

Q1. Will Republicans fight as hard as the Democrats when returning to power.

A1. The new breed of Republican is different. They will not let go of holding Democrats responsible for the progressive disaster they have unleashed on the American public.

Q2. Will the CDC be successful in further unwarranted vaccine mandates on children?

A2. Much more research and proof is needed before another level of risky intrusion into the heal

Q3. What early actions do you plan after taking back the House?

A3, First, stop the federal spending which at $10 trillion in the first two years of Biden's legacy was the main cause of the worst inflation in 40 years.

Next get us back to energy independence and curtail the unrealistic reliance on impractical replacements for crucial and proven fossil fuel-based energy sources.
